Host of Ten Thousand People Expected for Harvest Festival

Little Six Stars Team to Meet Addison in Festival Game Friday

All-Star Pilot Confident His Charges Will Outclass Hewson, Grange & Co.—Pitching Selections Unannounced—Big Retinue of Rooters to Trail From Little Six Towns.

(By Advertiser-Sentinel Staff Correspondent)

The Little Six All-Star team will clash with Addison Friday afternoon as a feature attraction of the big Harvest Festival. What will be the outcome? Addison is boasted as a strong team but how good is the All-Star outfit? Being a selection of the strongest hitters, it ought to be a good bet that they will score heavily off Addison. Also having the best pitchers of the league on the mound, they ought to hold the Tricos to a relatively small score.

Let us look at the All-Star team in detail before forming too good an opinion. Behind the plate will be Captain Lyle Whipple of the Jasper Aces. Whipple has been the strong point in the Jasper defense all season, also he has supplied the needed punch at the bat to win several games. He will have as a substitute, James Graham of Troupsburg. James has likewise been a mainstay of the Troupsburg defense and has added considerable power to the Tiger attack during the season. On the initial sack, Captain Bob Whittaker of Troupsburg will stand to receive all pegs. Bob has been one of the leading hitters of the league this year and can be looked to drive in a few runs for the All-Stars. He will have two of his former team-mates on the other side of the infield in the forms of Ivan Stone and Paul Dempsey. Stone received the unanimous vote of the managers of the league for his position, so he must be good. Troupsburg fans admit that he is the fastest runner and best base-stealer in the league, besides extolling his hitting virtues to the high heavens. In fact, there has been hardly a game this year in which he has not connected with one or more extra-base hits. In addition to all these virtues, he has played fine defensive ball in the hot corner all season. Paul Dempsey at short has likewise played excellent baseball for the Tigers. He too is an extra base hitter and has worried many a pitcher during times when a long hit meant a game.

At the keystone sack, Captain Bob Elliott of Woodhull will perform. Elliott has been held in high esteem by the Woodhull fans since he drove the ball out of the lot to win

Indian Chief Talks At School

Chief Strong Fox, nationally known Indian Chief lecturer and his troupe of five American Indians were much enjoyed when they gave an entertainment at the Woodhull High School Friday afternoon.

The members of the troupe were in costumes direct from the United States Indian reservation. They gave the Indian prayer song and other ceremonial rites, also told of their part in our history for centuries back.

During the lecture Chief Strong Fox spoke of the Indians in the World War in which 17,333 took part and that former vice-president Curtis' maternal parent was an Indian princess and the desire of the Indian people is to place one of their number in the presidential chair in the future and again rule the country once lost.

One of the special features of the entertainment was the adoption into the tribe of eight boy scouts, the Rev. Jesse Wilson, the Woodhull High School faculty and several teachers from the rural districts.

Pupils from the Harder, Brown, Brady and Owlville districts and many others attended.

Fred Kinney Loses Valuable Horse From Recklessness of Driver

Fred Kinney of Addison lost a valuable horse Friday evening, because of the reckless driving of a Corning motorist who ran down Mr. Kinney's team near the Burdette Beers farm on the Rathbone road. Moses Hadlock was driving the Kinney team home from work, being far out on the shoulder of the road when a car driven by Alfred M. Stratton came up the road at a fast rate of speed, careened over to the wrong side of the highway and crashed into the team, breaking one of the animal's front legs. The driver did not stop to make amends for the accident, but continued on to the Jerome Learn farm in Rathbone.

State troopers from Painted Post learned the identity of the driver and arrested him. Stratton was brought before D. J. Colbert in Addison Justice Court where he pleaded guilty to the charges of reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident, without reporting to authorities. He paid a fine of $15 for the former charge and $100 for the more serious offense.

Dr. M. F. Whitmore of Addison was called to treat the horse, but found it was hopelessly injured. The animal was shot by the veterinarian. The accident entails a large loss to Mr. Kinney, whose only recourse will be to seek redress from the driver of the car, highway fines going to the state.

Cities Service Power Prover To Be Here This Week

The Cities Service Power Prover, in charge of Perry Elterich, will be in Addison and vicinity all this week.

"The Power Prover" says Mr. Elterich, "puts the motor of all cars in the highest state of efficiency possible to be in its present condition. In other words, it assures the most power that is still in the motor with a minimum consumption of gas."

Some of the largest truck users in the country such as the Borden Creamery and others use the power prover to keep their trucks in the best condition. Mr. Elterich will be in Addison with the prover all day Friday and probably Saturday.

W .R. Campbell To Run for State Comptroller

Willson R. Campbell of Bath, was nominated for State Comptroller on the Republican ticket at the convention held in Rochester last week. Mr. Campbell's nomination was unopposed.

Willson R. Campbell, prominent Steuben County banker, was one of the four candidates for the nomination for Congressman in the 37th District at the hotly contested primary held last month. An odd feature of his candidacy in the coming election lies in the fact his father held the office of Comptroller of the state, after election on the Democratic ticket. J. C. Latham of Canisteo, chairman of the Steuben County Republican Committee made the speech nominating Mr. Campbell.

Dr. Barron Gets Unasked Nomination

Dr. William E. Barron of this place, was nominated as Congressman-at-large upon the ticket of the Law Preservation Party at the state convention held in Syracuse Monday. Dr. Barron was probably the most surprised person in the State of New York, upon receiving unofficial notice of his designation. He intimated to a member of the ADVERTISER staff yesterday that he would decline the nomination.

Dr. Barron waged a militant campaign for the Republican nomination for Congressman from the 37th District. Following the Primary he sent his congratulation to the winning candidate, W. Sterling Cole, and pledged his support in the coming election. He was named by the Law Preservation party entirely without his knowledge or consent.

In a statement to this paper last evening, Dr. Barron said:

"Had it been intimated to me that my name would be presented to the Law Preservation party in convention assembled, for nomination for any office, I would have most emphatically declined.

"The seriousness in the state and nation is too critical for any third party protest.

"Our Constitution is being torn and many people do not realize it.

"The declaration of a New York State Supreme Court Justice that neither the NRA nor President Roosevelt has any constitutional right to fix a selling price on any commodity within the borders of the state is sound doctrine.

"Let us rally to the support of those who oppose the fantastic, socialistic, monopolistic trend of the day by 'putting only Americans on guard'.

"It is no time to waste a vote in protest.

"Vote with the party of Lincoln. I shall support the Republican ticket and respectfully decline the nomination of the Law Preservation Party.

W. E. Barron.

Hi-Lights and Shadows of the Week's News

New clues were said to be developing in the Lindbergh kidnap prosecution case as New Jersey officials prepare to extradite Hauptman, the German carpenter caught in New York with part of the ransom money. Two people, a man and a woman were arrested in Chicago last week and police have been grilling the man on the supposition he may be an accomplice. A Danville, Va., man has informed federal authorities he saw two men in a parked Dodge car answering the description of Hauptman's conversing relative to a murdered baby. He stated the men looked like Hauptman and his companion Fisch whom the suspect maintains handed him the money found in the garage by police.

Final plans are now complete for the big Harvest Festival and Street Celebration which will get underway in Addison Friday morning and will continue throughout the day and Saturday in celebration of the community's long-projected Main street improvement, now an accomplished fact. An influx of from eight to ten thousand people is expected on each of the two days.

Friday

The formalities will actually start off at two o'clock Friday afternoon when a short parade through the business section and the central part of the village will be staged by local and neighboring musical units. At three o'clock on the high school diamond, Burrell Vastbinder will send his carefully groomed charges onto the field, prepared to resist the onslaught of Wellington Bouck's ADDISON ADVERTISER - WOODHULL SENTINEL Little Six All-Stars. Manager Bouck and his Little Six Brain Trust will wheel into town with an enviable mound staff, able backstops, infielders of snap and precision, and a coterie of outfield ball hawks who are as adept in getting under long clouts and hot raps as Iron Man Bruce, another Festival headliner, is reputed to be in getting in and out of the ground. The Little Six mentor stormily contends that every one of his proteges, the "cream of the Little Six crop", can wield the old willow and dire are the predictions of what will happen to Vassie's assortment of pitching jewels when his Little Six stickers file up to the plate.

At seven-thirty Friday evening, the Addison High School band, under personal direction of F. Arden Burt, will play in front of the City Hall. The concert will continue for one hour. The reputation of the Addison band has spread far and wide during the summer and honors have been heaped upon it in many quarters. At Wellsville, Coudersport, Dansville and other places where the local band has appeared it was adjudged not only one of the neatest and best in appearance but as having superior music training and execution.

Saturday

Another concert by the Addison High School band will start off the Saturday program. At 10:30 the Campbell High School Band will relieve the Addison musicians and again musical notes will fill the air. The Campbell band is ranked among the leading organizations of its kind in this section and hundreds of followers from the Campbell area are expected in Addison for the big day Saturday.

An attractive program of athletic sports will be held at the high school field Saturday morning from 10:00 to 12:00, under supervision of Wendell C. Hewson, athletic director at Addison High School. The winner of each event will be awarded with a cash prize of one dollar. Events in the order in which they will be run, are as follows: circling the bases (best time against stop watch), baseball throw for distance (three throws), bicycle race (for grade boys), 100-yard dash, mile run, potato race (grade girls), twelve pound shot put, high jump, half-mile run, horseshoe pitching (winner to be determined by elimination). Entrants are requested to register before 10:00 A. M.

The Big Parade

With blare of countless trumpets and beat of many drums the widely heralded street parade will swing into motion at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon. Standing room will be at a premium in the center section of town while the "spectacle of a generation" as the committee expects it to be, goes past. The line of march has been announced as follows: Main street, to Front to Ames, to Maple, to Wall to Front, to Main, to Steuben, to Brooks to Tuscarora, to South, to Farnham, to Cooper, to South, to Main, where the parade will disband. The various divisions will form on South street, Steuben and Colwell.

The parade order has been announced as follows: Major Fred Smith, famed baton swinger who headed many Firemen's Convention parades in Addison thirty years and more ago; William Lewis, marshal, color guard, consisting of Reuben Brown, Rathbun Stewart, Robert Mason and Fred Donaldson; state troopers.

The renowned American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps of Painted Post which has captured many honors at Legion meets, will be the first musical organization in line. Immediately after will appear the crack Avoca Hose Co. drill team, followed by floats entered by the following Addison business men—John B. Davis, Addison Home Telephone Co., L. E. Handy, J. Homer Reynolds, Edgar Dann, A. & P., Dairymen's League, Lynn A. Taylor, Pep-o Bakery, Market Basket and Bligh Chatfield.

The next section will be headed by the Corning Community Band, with the pet animal division following. Ponies have been entered by Oneta Stewart, Raymond Stewart of Rathbone, Coral Cook of Woodhull, Matthew Whitmore, Jr., Stanley Ackerson, Leon Demorest, Guy Crane of Thurston, Billy Bonham of Woodhull and M. B. Clark of Cameron, among many others expected to be in line.

Following in order thereafter will be: Painted Post High School Band, the widely publicized ox team, being sent here by the Standard Beverage Co. of Rochester; numerous floats entered by out-of-town business men doing business in Addison; the Elkland High School Band; students of Addison High School, variously costumed according to grades; Boy Scouts; Second Division of Fantastics; Local Grotesque Features.

The Campbell High School Band will be followed by the Addison baseball team, the Elkland baseball team, Woodhull delegation, Woodhull Boy Scouts, Woodhull Girl Scouts. A special feature of the Woodhull section will be Little Miss Muffett, an unannounced Woodhull miss, who goes the toreadores one better by leaping onto a fearsome bull, said by some to be the original bull which tore up the china closet, and calmly steers him along the line of march, defying the critter's vicious efforts to dismount her.

The giant truck of Hawkins & Hill will convey the Jasper High School Band, twenty-five strong. A supplementary Jasper contingent will follow. Then will appear the big dash of local color—Addison's boasted high school band, with the Welles Hose Co. and the Phoenix Hose Co., both resplendent in new uniforms immediately to the rear. The old original Addison fire apparatus will roll along behind, a length or two ahead of the Corning water pumper and the old original Corning water pumper.

Bringing up the rear of the gala procession will be a group of Addison boys in comedy make-up and William Pepper at the amplifier, announcing other big features to follow the parade.

It is possible that three additional fire companies and the Canisteo Valley Band will be included in the colorful parade when the march actually gets underway. Definite confirmation could not be received before this paper went to press.

Addison vs. Elkland

Addison and Elkland will fight it out for season's honors on the high school diamond immediately following the big parade. Each team has won two games in the series to date and sentiment will be thrown to the four winds when Vassie's men face Freburg and his mates. While these traditional rivals are fighting it out for honors of the diamond, a concert will be given by the Painted Post High School Band in front of the City Hall. The Elkland High School band will play from 7:00 to 8:00 in the evening and the Corning Community Band from

Court Upholds Milk Decision

Revocation of Eisenberg Farms License Ratified by Appellate Division — Is Largest Dealer in Out-of-State Milk

The revocation of the milk dealer's license of the Eisenberg Farms by Commissioner Charles H. Baldwin was recently upheld by the Appellate Division, Third Department. The corporation, long defiant of milk control, has been the subject of many proceedings about the prices it paid dairymen for milk and about alleged sales below the established prices in New York City. The company, which handles about three million pounds of milk a month, is known as the largest dealer in out- of-state milk. The entire supply is purchased in Pennsylvania.

Vicinity Grangers Asked To Support Rathbone Play

Rathbone Grange, as many people know, has been building a new hall. They lacked some money of having enough to complete the building. In order to raise some more funds the Grangers are this week, Thursday and Friday nights presenting a play, "The Trial of a Century."

Judging from rehearsal reports, the play is a "scream." Everyone is invited to enjoy a good laugh, forget their troubles, and give Rathbone Grange a boost in the bargain. Woodhull, Addison, Hedgesville, N. Jasper, N. Cameron, Nelson, Freeman and Borden — which will be most largely represented?

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Andrews and daughter Eleanor spent Sunday with their son Carl, who is a student at Alfred University. Mr. Andrews is a member of the college band and also of the glee club.

HARD ROADS TO BLANK WALLS

One of the greatest hardships about our present adventure into professorial form of government, lies in the fact the American people are continually being led up to one impasse after another, yet are never led out of the maze of impossibilities. Perhaps that is because an educationalist is by training and habit a confirmed disciple of experiment; when he comes to a blank wall he must stand before it and carry on new lines of experiment never thinking of such a compromise as going around the wall.

All of which is probably sensible enough from the classroom angle where men are paid to cut and try, mix up and throw their mistakes down the drain hole. Professors in a laboratory are dealing with inanimate objects, with plant life, or with the baser living creatures in the animal kingdom. If their experiments with the latter are successful without the shadow of doubt, they are allowed the privilege of applying the remedy evolved, upon the human animal. Very often those experiments work out perfectly to the great benefit of suffering humanity; for which the experimenters can never receive the praise which is there due.

Yet their success in working out certain types of human problems through laboratory experiments and final treatment of higher animals, is no excuse for the same line of treatment being attempted in governmental matters. Can one imagine any clinic allowing young surgeons and internes to try out some brilliantly conceived notions of surgery upon innocent people coming for treatment in the orthodox way? Would not the large percentage of deaths resulting from carving folks up in uncharted ways, be chargeable as murders against society?

In like manner experimentation with the hopes and economic welfare of more than 100 million Americans by laboratory minded professors, is a travesty of human rights. Business leadership has not always been right; through the last 150 years at times it may have grievously failed, but business leaders are possessed of the inherent habit of admitting their mistakes and hurrying to rectify them. When they reach a blank wall they do not pound it with impotent fists, but find a way around.

That is why a business may suffer tremendous loss, yet does not hesitate to write-off that loss and continue along the difficult, though sure road to ultimate success. It hurts a business man cruelly to write off big losses; costly mistakes that may have shoved his firm miles out of the line of progress towards a certain goal, are painful. But when the dead wood has been slashed away, there is something about the act which gives a new freedom of mind to strike out and make new and faster progress.

When the present Administration came into power the public mind was convinced it could work out some magic form of recovery, that would cure our economic ills without the pain of traveling the old, hard road. Experiments were tried one after another as fast as a horde of college professors could impress the President with their possibilities. Nearly all these short-cuts towards recovery have turned out to be blank stone walls blocking otherwise steep but direct roads. The American people in the aggregate have lost centuries of life awaiting for their collegiate leaders to find experimental ways through these walls, instead of following the sure, hard road around.

The policy of cutting the gold content of the dollar has failed to accelerate trade or raise agricultural prices—potatoes were being carred at 30 cents a bushel last week. NRA not only has failed to add to employment, it has driven many small firms out of business and fomented strike after strike to cut down the earning capacity of the nation. AAA pursued in the face of a disastrous drought has served to boost consumers' food prices 38 per cent and has only brought spending money to one section at bitter costs to all others. Supplanting private hoarding of gold with governmental confiscation has merely confirmed the suspicion of the American people that this Administration could not be trusted to leave our currency alone. Repudiation of government's sacred promise of gold redemption for securities has snapped the vitality of business and undermined the confidence of the people.

And still there lies ahead that hard, sure road to recovery we must eventually travel to reach stability. Have our experiments been worth the costs?

ROBERT MOSES

Many people will be interested to know what type of man the Republicans nominated for governor of New York at the convention in Rochester last week. For that reason we give the following brief resume of his life and activities.

Robert Moses was born in New Haven, Conn. in 1888, son of a department store owner. He is of Spanish-Jewish extraction, the same stock from which sprang Benjamin Cardozo, one of the justices of the U. S. Supreme Court. He graduated from Yale and immediately became interested in social service problems.

Robert Moses has held as many as nine government jobs at one time, yet has never before run for a high elective political office. He has been a doer of big jobs, being Park Commissioner of New York City; member of the Triborough Bridge Authority; President of the Long Island Park Commission. He is said to have exerted as much influence over the affairs of this state as Al Smith or Franklin Roosevelt. A warm friend of Al Smith, he served his city a good turn by aiding the administration of LaGuardia in overthrowing Tammany Hall.

Robert Moses would bring to the office of governor a high sense of civic value and a small sense of political hocus-pocus.

OUTLAW BUSINESS

There are certain types of business which, by their very character are outlaws, or should be at least branded as bandits of civilization. One of these outlaws in effect upon society has recently been in the limelight during the past few weeks during an investigation in Washington. That outlaw is the war munitions business.

Say what you will, a business that depends for its growth upon the lusts and avarice of mankind, must be termed a bandit in human relationship. And as such it will almost invariably be found to break the laws that are generally accepted as safe guides for human conduct. Take for instance the matter of bribery. Accuse a man of being a bribe taker, or a bribe receiver and immediately that man thrown upon the defensive — militantly prepares to fight to the last ditch to remove such an onus from his name. For bribery has become recognized in most civilized countries as a low form of human conduct, deserving to be scorned by lawbreaker as well as the honest man.

Yet the recent Senate investigation in Washington has brought out the fact that one of the most useful tools of salesmanship by which manufacturers have peddled their wares to war infested lands, has been that of bribery. As the du Pont quartet, big powder makers of this country, testified day after day, and government investigators brought forth paper after paper that connected their dealings with the custom of handing out bribes to foreign officials to use American munitions for tearing human beings to pieces, the rulers of the world began to shake with fear as prominent name after name was handed around. Demands grew irresistible that these hearings be conducted in secret, lest many countries would become unfriendly with the U. S. for allowing the names of their great men to be connected with that unspeakable error of bribe taking. But before the munitions disclosures were all subjected to the hush of closed sessions, many a racy bit of news had leaked out concerning the willingness of certain high-up to have their palms greased with money when war materials contracts were being considered.

This is quite to be expected. Wars are almost invariably started to satisfy the avarice of some leaders. Those who would shoot human beings to pieces to satisfy their cupidity, must naturally be expected to take bribes. Likewise industrialists who found their fortunes by the manufacture of machines for human torture, must be expected to resort to bribery for increasing business.

There is little difference in the munitions manufacturer and the liquor manufacturer. Each is engaged in a business that depends for success upon exploiting of human frailities. The greater the exploitation, the higher the amount of human misery, the greater the success of the business.

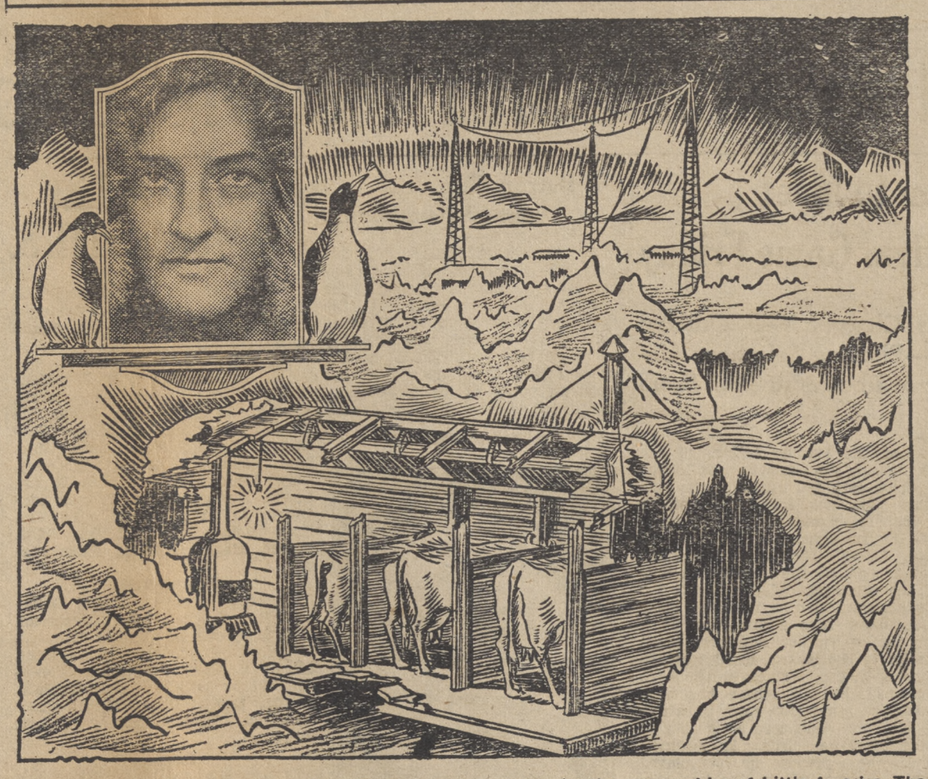
Some day the world will arrive at an advanced state of civilization where men can realize the true, outlaw nature of certain types of business, and remove humanities bandits far outside the pale of human relationship. We may be yet far from that day, but if the race really progresses in time some succeeding generation will accomplish the fact.

SURVEY OF REVOLUTION

"It is the purpose of this examination", says Herbert Hoover in his new book "The Challenge to Liberty", just published by Charles Scribner's Sons, "upon behalf of human liberty to survey briefly the movement of revolution through the world since the Great War, the method of overthrow of Liberalism; to recall our American heritage, the growth of our Liberty, the forces in human nature and human behavior which govern economic life, the restraints and ideals of the system of ordered Liberty, the Achievements of the American system; to analyze from an American point of view the alternate systems of society; to examine our own abuses of Liberty; to review the purposes of American life; to consider constructively, not a detailed program, but the method through which we alone can solve national problems.

"Over a period of twenty years I have been honored by my country with positions where contention with the forces of social disintegration was my continued duty. I should be untrue to that service did I not raise my voice in protest, not at reform, not at emergency actions, but at the threat of the eclipse of Liberty."

Milk Fine Everywhere But a Godsend in Antarctica, Says Radio to Baldwin



Artist's drawing of the strangest dairy in the world, buried under the snow and ice of Little America. The three cows supply Admiral Richard E. Byrd and his men thirty to forty quarts of fresh milk daily, and they are reasonably comfortable in this little barn with one electric light and a small stove, although temperatures are sometimes 80 degrees below zero.

"MILK is fine everywhere but it is a godsend in Antarctica". This is the word from the bottom of the world—from Admiral Richard E. Byrd's expedition—to Charles H. Baldwin, Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets of New York, who is directing the Empire State's advertising campaign to promote the greater consumption of fresh milk and cream.

Admiral Byrd has the distinction of being the first of the world's great polar explorers to provide fresh milk for the members of his expedition. Three fine cows with a year's supply feed were a major and interesting part of the Byrd cargo taken on this second trip to the South Pole. After arrival there, "Iceberg", the bull calf, was born.

The complete radiogram from Antarctica follows:

"For Charles H. Baldwin Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets, Albany, New York.

One of the greatest comforts of our limited winter existence at Little America is the milk given by the three cows. They yield from thirty to forty quarts of fresh milk a day and it has been a great help to the diet. These cows, the first cows ever to be brought to the Antarctic continent, are withstanding the rigors of the winter very well. Milk is fine everywhere but it is a Godsend in Antarctica. Still it is a great pity that cows can't talk. I would certainly like to hear what they think of this whole business. The dairy is wholly buried under snow and the only light the cows see is from a 25 watt lamp suspended over the stalls. The only relaxation they have is a weekly walk down the narrow tunnels during which they are usually assaulted by the wild pups from dogtown and the only grass they have seen is hay at least a year old. In spite of it all they maintain that blank, docile expression of resignation characteristic of all cows, never protesting and never once joining in the plaintive lamentations of the rest of us. The young bull 'Iceberg' has never seen land or grass but it does not seem to bother him. After all he has no memories of sweeter pastures.

"Signed Charles J. V. Murphy,— in charge of communication".

The radiogram was sent to Commissioner Baldwin through Victor Czegka, Supply Officer of the Byrd Expedition. Mr. Czegka has won international attention because of his design for the metallated hut buried deep in the snow and in which Admiral Byrd lived alone during the four months he spent at his advanced base.

Republican Convention Selects Moses To Head Party Ticket

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 1—In what was probably the most spirited contest for the nomination of Governor since the convention of 1910, Robert Moses of New York was chosen on the third ballot—the nomination being made unanimous, after the result was announced showing Moses as having 824 votes. Only 753 were necessary for choice. Mayor Marvin of Syracuse, his chief rival, who secured 486 votes on the 3rd ballot, immediately mounted to the platform and announced his intention to take his coat and vest off and work for the success of the Republican party and Bob Moses." Thus the convention ended in complete harmony, even ex-Chairman Macy, letting it be known thru his representative that he will "do all in his power to assist the committee and the party". George Harvey, of Queens, who also was a candidate, stated that he would work hard to elect Bob Moses to the Governorship. Needless to say, Judge Seabury, a Democrat, had nothing to say, and left Rochester for his home before the balloting was over, after releasing his few remaining delegates.

It is unanimously believed that with Robert Moses blazing the way, the Republicans of this state have the best opportunity they have had in the past twelve years, of electing their entire ticket, including legislative candidates. Bob Moses is probably the best qualified man in this state to become Governor, both by training and experience. He is independent, courageous and progressive—three very essential qualities to deal with present day conditions.

A Yale and Oxford graduate, he has made public service his life work. His public record dates back to service under John Purroy Mitchel, Mayor of New York, when he was affiliated with the Bureau of Municipal Research. He has never held an elective office, and has served as chairman, since 1923, of the State Council of Parks and president of the Long Island State Park Commission, without salary. At present he is Park Commissioner of New York City as well, and has proceeded with his usual vigor to make that department business-like in all its aspects, thinking only of the people of New York City in his program, and not of a favored few, who might oppose any of his moves.

Political observers are agreed that he is the one man capable of expressing the growing dissatisfaction with the present Roosevelt policies at Washington, and the weak handling of the state's business at Albany. He is a particularly keen student of finance, and may be counted on to show just how the state's finances have been allowed to get in the deplorable condition they are now in, with a $67,000,000 deficit an actuality on June 30 of this year, with prospects of this deficit reaching $100,000,000 by the end of this fiscal year.

One of the high spots of the convention, and probably the most outstanding speech made, was that delivered by Senator Joe Hanley of Wyoming County, who was the permanent chairman of the convention. He roused the convention to a high pitch of enthusiasm as he assailed President Roosevelt and Governor Lehman and their administrations in vehement, old-time political language. A veteran of two wars, the ruddy-faced Senator from Perry kept the audience in cheers as he hit at the Roosevelt program as limiting liberty and accused Governor Lehman of failing in his fiscal and farm policy. He put the convention in a militant mood, and made them feel that this is a Republican year, and with the candidates selected, and the platform adopted, every delegate left Rochester feeling that a good job had been accomplished.

Melvin Eaton of Chenango County, was elected state chairman by a practically unanimous vote at the close of the convention, and plans to map out the campaign immediately, and Republicans are agreed that with a united attack on the present entrenched Democratic machine, victory in November is certain.

"Who is Nelly Bly?" The Mystery Will Be Solved at Mcok Trial In Rathbone Grange Hall

Tom Wellman to "Defend" Himself in Breach of Promise Action Brought for Benefit of Grange Building Fund—"Trial" to be Presented Thursday and Friday Nights.

"Who is Nellie Bly?" That is the big question of the hour. The question that has been asked over and over again since the scandalous "Breach of Promise Case" of Bly vs Wellman was first announced, at least, Rathbone Grangers say so.

As this goes to press no one besides Tom Wellman has been able to find out the exact identity of the notorious Nellie Bly.

The name of Nellie Bly brings many fond memories. For one thing there used to be a lot of horses named Nellie. Then there was a quotation from Shakespeare, or somebody, that went like this: "Oh, where is our little Nellie? Oh, our little Nellie is up in them thar mountings. I'd be afeared for our little Nellie. Oh don't be afeard for our little Nellie. Our little Nellie can ride a bicycle."

Anyway, "someone ain't done right by our little Nell, and poor Tom Wellman is the victim. The best anyone can do is, wish him luck."

One thing certain is that next Thursday and Friday, Oct. 4 and 5 are going to be red letter days in Tom Wellman's life. "Attorney" Merring says he thinks he can pull Tommy through. But Judge R. M. Myres says justice must be done and will be done in any court where he presides. Pearl Barr Fowler, Walsteen Church, Abe Bolio and Walter Perry have all said they are prepared to give truthful testimony when they go on the stand. At the same time the jury with prominent names such as Bernard and Steve Hanrahan, Leah Church, Harold Widger and George Cole say they are going to be firm and uninfluenced by any of the respective testimonies offered.

And of coures there is going to be considerable entertainment while the jury is out. Zu-Zu will do his share to take up the time while the jury is deliberating.

All in all the event next Thursday will be the "Trial of a Century." Tickets are now on sale for the unusual affair by members of the Rathbone Grange. Advance reports indicate that the Rathbone Grange Hall will be packed to see that "justice is done."

Court Upholds Milk Decision

ed by the Appellate Dipision, the Eisenberg Company may appeal to the Court of Appeals within twenty days, and a stay allowing the Company to remain in business is granted for that period. However, if the company is to remain in business pending review of the case by the Court of Appeals, it must provide the records of the Eisenberg Farm Products, Inc., a Pennsylvania corporation, to the Division of Milk Control. Unless this information is given within the twenty-day perod the stay becomes invalid.

The Company was given a hearing before the Division of Milk Control on August 6 regarding the revocation of a previously granted conditional license. The conditional license was revoked on August 7. The Eisenberg Company secured a stay in the Supreme Court, Albany County, on August 19 until the Appellate Division could review the determination. In the meanwhile actions against the Company are pending in Magistrates Court in New York City for alleged underselling to a New York City storekeeper.

Henry S. Manley, Counsel to the Department of Agriculture and Markets, stated: "The problem of regulating interstate milk has been one of the principal troubles of milk control for the past year and a half. This prompt decision by the Appellate Division, 3rd Department, will be helpful in dealing with this problem."

Few Reactors in Accredited Herds

From January 1, 1934, 300 accredited veterinarians retested 53,031 accredited herds and administered tests to 670,668 cattle. These tests reveal 2,707 reactors on 1,392 farms. The precentage of infection was .4 of 1% and tuberculosis was revealed in 2.4% of the herds. The tests in these areas are considered highly satisfactory according to Dr. E. T. Faulder, director of the Bureau of Animal Industry because the accredited herd plan permits areas to remain in the accredited status so long as the infection is kept below ½ of 1%. In the areas where the initial test is being administered approximately 16,000 reactor cattle were found n July and 20,000 in August.

Let's set a RECORD during Milk Month

● Let's CONSUME milk as well as SELL it, thereby helping ourselves and the community.

THE Governor and the Legislature of the State of New York have set aside October as Milk Month . . . a period in which every man, woman, and child is urged to Drink More Milk . . . to preach the virtues of Nature's Finest Food from pulpit, platform, and in the circles of social contact.

This is your opportunity to help the State, to help the surrounding dairying community, and last but not least to help yourself and your family. Start now by serving milk at every meal, to insure "A quart a day for every child—a pint a day for every adult."

It is a fact that habitual milk-drinkers seldom know what it is to feel tired—really tired. And it is people who tire easily who are exposed most to disease and infection. Milk is Nature's Body-Guard. It fights fatigue-poisons before they can accumulate and work their harm. It builds resistance against disease.

The charge that city-folks drink more milk than we do here is a challenge to every one of us. It's time to get busy and drink our way to improved health, to greater community wealth. How about a glass of milk right now, ivory and cold and brimming with what-it-takes to keep you at top-notch?

Hugh A. Mose Now Delco Dealer

Bliss Electrical School in Washington, D. C., in 1924. For two or three years thereafter he was employed by the North Penn Power Co. of Westfield, Pa. For a number of years past he has been located in Addison as an electrical contractor and dealer in lighting plants and supplies.

As a Delco dealer, Mr. Mose will handle light and power plants, replacement batteries, water systems, radios, and household appliances. Delco systems provide complete electric service for the home and for general farm purposes.

"We shall endeavor to provide everyone 100% service on any plant they may have" says Mr. Mose. "Electric plants of all types are capably of being efficiently served with Delco parts and if any prospective customer with old type equipment, does not feel it advantageous to purchase new equipment at the present time he will have no difficulty in finding a Delco part which will make his present equipment serviceable for a more extended period".

Besides installing plants and equipment, Mr. Mose is prepared to wire buildings and hang fixtures—in short, a complete electrical service is offered.

"VANISHING SHADOW" COVERS SEA AND AIR

The loney Point Firman lighthouse, on the shore of the Pacific Ocean near Wilmington, California, furnished one setting for Universal's newest 12 chapter serial drama, "the Vanishing Shadow," coming to the Avon Theatre on each Thursday and Friday.

A bitter battle is waged here between Onslow Stevens, who is featured with Ada Ince, and a power-crazed political gang.

The story deals with modern electrical science and a crowd of power-crazed political grafters, who are endeavoring to gain control of a powerful newspaper owned by Stanley Stanfield (Onslow Stevens) about to print an expose of their shady deals.

The cast includes such well known screen actors as William Desmond, formerly a Universal star; Walter Miller, well-known character actor; James Durkin, who came to the screen several years ago from the legitimate stage and Richard Cramer, called the screen's most artful villan..

Ten Thousand People Expected at Festival

8:00 to 9:00.

Police

Police Chief Elmer C. Bovee announces that he will be assisted on Friday and Saturday by two assistant Scout leaders who will be on duty at all times. Patrols of Boy Scouts will assist in directing traffic. These patrols will be relieved every four hours.

Four additional police officers will also be on duty in addition to the Chief. The four additional officers will not be uniformed but will wear badges and may be easily identified.

Four Boy Scouts will also be assigned to messenger duty—two to Nelson B. Payne and D. J. Colbert, chairman and secretary of the festival committee, and two to William Lewis, parade marshal and his aides.

Chief Bovee also announces that as soon as the big parade starts all traffic from City Hall to the Cities Service Station will be discontinued. Traffic will be diverted to Maple street where it will stand by until such time as the rear of the parade has passed on Front Street. During the march back up Maple street until the head of the parade reaches the first part of Main street, when all traffic again will be discontinued on Main street until the parade has cleared.

As the parade returns from Steuben street down Tuscarora, all traffic will be diverted at the head of Tuscarora and routed over Steuben street.

In addition to the local officers, four state troopers will also be at hand for possible emergency duty.

All Dressed Up

In anticipation of the big event. Main street has been gaily decorated and the stores along the new white way are all dressed up in brilliant hues. Local painters have been doing a land-office business and returning home-comers just won't know the old home town—all dressed up in immaculate fronts which smile disdainfully at Old Man Depression and blink knowingly and expectantly at the future.

To Be Buried Alive

A feature of the celebration will be the presence of Iron-man Bruce, who will be buried alive near the City Hall at midnight Thursday. He will remain underground until midnight Saturday when he will be exhumed—not dead, but very much alive.

Crossing Protected

Committee officials announced yesterday that the Erie Railroad would provide special protection at the Main street crossing on Saturday afternoon. A trainmaster with portable phones will be stationed at the tower.

The approach of the big two-day festival, which is expected to far outdo anything of a similar Sisto, and other committee members, particularly Maurice B. Tyson and Samuel Erwin of the Solicitation Committee.

"The event of a generation" remarked one of the committee, in recently outlining plans. Everything indicates that it will be.

Specialist Says It Pays Women Well to Study Buying Methods

"It pays well to buy wisely" is on problems of feeding at low cost. the slogan of Mrs. Lucile Williamson, household buying specialist from the New York state college of home economics, who will introduce the new household economics program to Steuben County homemakers on her visit here next week. Mrs. Williamson will speak at the Greenwood Grange Hall on Thursday, October 11th at 1:30; at Hammondsport in the M. E. Church parlors Thursday evening at 7:30; and at Painted Post in the Town Hall at 1:30 Friday afternoon, October 12th.

Foods and small household necessities supplied by the grocery store take a larger part of the family's income than any other type of purchases. Therefore, reducing expenditure to meet reduced income means special attention to food costs. Yet, since health depends so greatly upon the right food, homemakers realize that in cutting food costs they must not fail to provide adesuate meals for the family.

Many housewives find two main ways of reducing their grocery bills, choosing inexpensive yet adequate foods, and studying the markets in order to apply business principles to food buying. The latter method will be taken up by Mrs. Williamson, who will demonstrate with actual goods how the small savings in a year's time add up to a substantial sum.

As both homemaker and student of foods and nutrition, marketing and household economics, Mrs. Williamson is especially well fitted for the work she is doing in the extension service of the New York state college of home economics this year, in introducing to homemakers of the state the new project in household buying.

Mrs. Williamson was graduated from the University of Oklahoma and received a Ph. D. degree from Columbia University. Subsequently she spent some time as assistant professor in the department of household science at the University of California.

Since coming to Cornell she has studied economics, particularaly in its application to household buying, to find out how the marketing system affects the consumer and how it may be changed for the consumer's benefit. Besides this she has done experimental work with foods, attempting to find those that furnish maximum nutritive value at minimum cost, and has worked with communities and individuals

Jasper Aces Capture Flag In Little Six League

Jasper Next With Four—All Teams in Circuit Place One or More — Cobb, Daily, Drake and Erway Named as Boxmen—Team to Play Addison Friday

A fat old gent wearing rubber boots and a long fur overcoat, later identified as Santa Claus, strolled onto the Jasper diamond Sunday afternoon and handed Manager Drake the league pennant, appropriately wrapped in cellophane. Whitesville failed to produce a ball team to challenge the Aces in the final game of the season, so the Aces backed into the championship without a struggle. Many members of the Troupsburg team were on hand to assist Whitesville vocally but they were sadly disappointed. The Aces won the first half title by ousting Woodhull from a tie earlier in the season. By playing better baseball they eliminated all chance of a tie in the second half and therefore are sole claimants of the 1934 championship. However many are the promises that they shall not claim the coveted banner at the end of the 1935 season. Several managers in the league already are setting forth to build tremendous batting and pitching power to tumble the Aces from their perch next year. In the first half the Aces scored 113 runs to their opponents' 67. In the second half they scored 102 runs to their opponents' 43. Several other teams in the league can boast scores higher than these but they cannot say that they have scored them off Ace pitching.

Troupsburg Captures Second Place

Santa Claus paid a double visit to Troupsburg Sunday afternoon after his trip to Jasper and deposited two games in Manager Bert Rusue's lap. Dut to the fact that the Woodhull team is disrupted, the doubled-header scheduled for Sunday was forfeited to Troupsburg. This gift cut Jasper's lead to one-half game and gave Troupsburg a mathematical chance to tie for the second half title but Whitesville's forfeit to Jasper demolished this chance and left Troupsburg one full game behind the leaders. The local team has played good ball all this season, leading the league for the earlier part of the first half. However, they lost two critical games at the close of the half and were nosed out by a one game margin. Heavy hitting has been featured all the season, the usual scoring being from fifteen to thirty runs for the Tigers. Had a good pitcher been with the team all the season, Troupsburg would undoubtedly been the league champs. The team's placing of five men on the All-Star team confirms this statement. Perhaps the 1935 season will see Troupsburg emerging as league champions.

Austinburg and Freeman Split Double Headers

Freeman invaded Austinburg Sunday with a composite team picked from many localities and divided a twin bill with the local team. In the opener, Merle Daily, formerly seen on the Woodhull mound, proved master of Red Abbott in a free hitting contest. Freeman started with a rush, filling the bases and then driving in two runs in the opening inning. Austinburg tied it up in the third but Freeman added two more in the fourth to forge ahead once more. The local team tried hard and took the lead with a three run rally in their half of the inning. Freeman tied it up again in the first of the fifth and Austinburg took the lead again in the same inning. Then the Freeman batters went on a spree and collected four runs and the game in the sixth. Austinburg made a valiant attempt in the last of the seventh and scored two more but were unable to make the grade. Abbott, although losing pitcher, struck out five men to Daily's three.

In the nightcap the few remaining spectators were treated to a rare pitchers' duel for five and one-half innings. June Kilborn of Austinburg faced Davenport, whom Freeman had imported from somewhere, in the tightest duel that the writer has seen this year in this league. During the seven-inning game, Kilborn yielded but six well scattered hits, two of which bunched in the third gave Freeman their only tally. Davenport did even better and allowed only two hits during the first five innings, but a terrific bombardment in the sixth drove him from the mound. Merle Daily, victor of the opener, was called in to take up the heavy task of saving the game but he was unable to get going in time to stop the men from Pennsy until they had the game well tucked away. Freeman tallied their only score in the third when Beers singled, stole second and came in on Daily's long single. Austinburg scored on errors in the fourth and again in the fifth when Freeman tried for a man at every base and all were safe. In the sixth, however, they got going in fine style. Finch singled and Wakely, while ducking an inside ball, had the good or bad luck to let it hit his bat. Being a fast man he was able to beat it out. The ball rolled down the third base line in the very best bunting manner. Odell struck out and Mack connected for his third single of the day, scoring Finch. At this juncture, Davenport was taken out and Daily called in. Plank greeted him with a rousing single and Kent worked a walk, filling the bases. Abbott connected with a long drive scoring three men. Kilborn rapped out a single, sending Abbott to third. Bloom and Finch hit high flies to left field, Kelse making the putouts. Of special notice was Finch's marvelous catch of Sawyer's long drive in the sixth.

a tight game from Freeman. The writer personally has been on the scenes enough to see Elliott make some brilliant plays and drive out some long hits when they counted for the most. The brilliant infield will be supported if necessary by the services of Beers of Freeman. Beers has attempted to win a few games by himself this season but has been unable to make the grade. However his brilliant playing on a losing team attracted the attention of many managers as the voting disclosed. In the outer reaches of the diamond, three more excellent defensive players will haul down anything that may be hit to them. In left field, Woodward of Jasper will stand ready to spear anything that may come his way. Woodward has been one of the best hitters in the league this year. In several games he hit 1000 per cent, and all of his hits were for exera bases. He should do his part in assisting the Addison pitchers to the showers.

In center field, Burdette Drake, the Jasper Flash, will show the fans how a real fielder works. Drake has fielded balls this year that were declared impossible for a fielder to catch. Being naturally fast on his feet, he has been the saviour of many a bad spot for the Aces. In right field, Clark of Whitesville, will take his stand. At a recent game, a youthful Whitesville fan declared, "Clark hits a home run every time he gets to bat." While the writer was pondering this statement, Clark smacked out a long drive that carried him around to third base. The youthful supporter declared that Clark had hard luck on that shot. We trust that he will have better luck next Friday. Clark has been managing the Whitesville team this year, and the fact that they finished in third place against such competition, points to his knowledge of baseball. Bloom and Wakely of Austinburg will be on hand as utility outfielders. Both of these men have been playing heads-up baseball in the field and both are dangerous hitters.

In the pitching department, three men tied for first place in one voting and one carried off second Cobb of Whitesville, R. Drake of Jasper and Daily of Woodhull. Ken Erway of Troupsburg carried second place. There is quite a marked similiarity in all of these men. Physically they are all about alike, slender and not above the average height. All are in the habit of using their heads more than their arms. All are curve ball artists and none depends on speed alone to win games. All have been winning games steadily when they had any support at all. The first, Cobb, was at the beginning of the season, given credit, as being the ranking pitcher of the league. He is reported to have played on the Alfred Varsity team and has a fine record while with Whitesville. Manager Bob Drake of Jasper has been winning most of his games this year. He has been holding his opponents to from three to six hits regularly. During the first part of the season, Merle Daily of Woodhull mowed his opponents in regular order. It looked as though Woodhull would win a pennant behind him. Then the Woodhull team cracked and errors lost games that should have been chalked up in Dailey's winning column. With a good team behind him, Dailey can pitch a fine game of baseball.

Erway, of Troupsburg, has had a peculiar record this year. Most of the time he has played various positions on the team. He has pitched but few games but has won most of them. Those that he did lose were lost by small margins and in one case his own team outhit the winners. However, his performance on the mound impressed observers so much that he was accorded a position on the All-Star team. Collectively, these four pitchers should be able to place the Addison team on the hardwood in rapid succession. In addition to their pitching ability, all are dangerous hitters, smashing the old idea that pitchers can't hit.

In summary it might be said that the Little Six All-Star team is all that can be asked of an amateur league. No player in this league has received any compensation for his services and each has had to furnish himself with transportation to the games. However the, players as a whole, have stayed with their ideals and have been present at the games regularly. A team composed of the cream of the league should be able to furnish any semi-pro team in this section with a very close race. One outstanding fact is noticeable in the selection of the team, there are two managers and three captains on the All-Star team. This goes to show that the leaders have been real leaders and not drivers. Perhaps this accounts for the fine brand of baseball that has been given to the fans of the Little Six League.

Fans Stunned By Cards' Brilliant Finish

Mixed emotions on the part of Addison fans greeted the dashing finish of the St. Louis Cardinals which landed Frisch's men at the top of the heap in the National League. A week-ago, when it appeared the Giants would cop, the Tigers were a distinct favorite to come through in the World Series. Since then the odds have shortened as a recheck of local sentiment reveals. Read what they say:

Harold Stowell — "The Cardinals — and I won't be very far wrong."

Bernard Mullaney — " Cardinals. After Bill Terry's cracks about the Dodgers, I guess he had it coming to him. There's no stopping the Cardinals now."

Lynn Taylor — "St. Louis. I have always been a Giant fan, but the best team won."

Chief Bovee —"Am sticking with the Tigers. They still look good to me."

Bill Kennedy — "Detroit will win. And I wonder if Terry knows now whether Brooklyn's in the league."

Peper Heidrick — "Tigers, four out of six."

Lynn Bly — "Detroit looks too good."

Simon Hickey — "St. Louis will take 'em. They have been playing in great luck lately."

Tri-County Champs, With Freburg In Box, To Meet Vass's Men in Deciding Clash

Tanners and Addison Nine Have Each Won Two Games in 1934 Rivalry — Grange, Flynn or McDermott to Pitch—Largest Crowds of Season Expected for Two Encounters.

Base ball fans who come to the big Harvest Festival Saturday at Addison will have the opportunity of seeing the rivals, Elkland and Addison in action on the Addison High School grounds in the deciding game of the year between the two teams. Elkland and Addison have met four time in Tri-County League games this year and have each won two games. The game Saturday will be the ruber for the year and both teams will be right there to win. The rivalry between the teams has been going on for years and getting hotter all the time. Elkland is locked in a death struggle with the Corning Glass Works for the championship of the Tri-County League and the teams played a tie game at Elkland last Sunday, darkness ending the struggle with the score tied at two all. When Elkland comes to Addison, they come to win with all their heavy artillery. Saturday will be no exception. Freburg or Baker, with Swan behind the bat, and the Dorn brothers, Caffo brothers, Spencer, Cevette, Mulaski, Davenport, Scarcella, and the others all in the line-up.

The Addison team has been playing fine ball in their last games and will be right there. Depending on the outcome of Friday's game with the All Little Six team, Don Grange, Johnny Flyn or Walt McDermott will pitch for Addison. Robbins or Stowell will catch, Riker, Hewson, Heidrick, Hovey or Willis will play the infield with John Grange, Hadlock, Matthews or Hibbard in the outer defenses. The game will be called about 3:00 o'clock, immediately after the big parade. The largest crowd ever to assemble on the High Schol field will doubtless be on hand to see the old rivals fight it out in the deciding game of the year. There is plenty of parking room at the field but the first to come will get the best places.

The Little Six All-Stars, comprising the pick of the talent in the Little Six Loop, will face Vassie's charges on Friday afternoon on the High School diamond . The All-Stars will be assembled and directed by Wellington Bouck, staff correspondent of the ADDISON ADVERTISER and the WOODHULL SENTINEL. Mr. Bouck promises to come down the valley with a well balanced combination which will make plenty of trouble for the Addison nine. The game will be called at 3:00 p. m.
